FEW TAKERS—A lifeguard at Lake-on-the-Campus had things pretty much to himself about 2 p.m. Thursday. It's all a far cry from summer, when the beach was generally packed.

Students Start To Get Decisions On Autos, Bikes

The first decisions on students' applications for motor vehicle parking stickers were handed out Thursday in the Arena main lobby.

They represented a start on a backlog.

The decisions, on both automobiles and motorcycles were in general on applications made Tuesday.

Joseph F. Zaleski, assistant dean for off-campus housing and motor vehicle registration, said student affairs authorities "stayed up all night" processing the applications.

No decisions have been made yet on applications for permission to live in unsupervised housing.

Zaleski said the applications took two days to process because class standings, grade averages and disciplinary records are being checked in each case.

About the same amount of time will be needed for remaining applications, Zaleski said.

A long line of decision-seekers shaped up at the Arena Thursday.

Some temporary stickers are being issued pending review of housing applications, Zaleski said.

"One criterion for granting stickers we are using asks 'Is travel necessary?'" Zaleski said.

"For instance, if a boy comes in here and says he needs a sticker because he lives three miles from school we ask him if it was necessary to live that far from school," Zaleski said.

"If there are, say, 1,000 spaces in supervised housing in Carbondale, I don't see how we can say that travel is necessary," Zaleski added.

He said that when similar decisions are reached on applications to live in unsupervised housing, temporary stickers issued will be revoked or permanent stickers will not be granted.

Warning Tickets To Be Issued For Unlawful Parking

The Security Office announced Thursday that warning tickets will be given to motorists parking in unauthorized areas.

Captain Randal B. McBride of the SIU Security force said that it was not known when officers would begin checking car registrations.

"It may be Monday, but it will all depend on how long it takes the Parking Section to check and clear car registration applications," he said.

Relative to the large number of cars on campus this week, McBride said that everything has progressed smoothly until now.

"There are, though," he said, "a large number of freshmen who are bringing cycles on campus, unaware of the rules prohibiting them to do so."

Convocation Hears Morris Speak on Fruits of Education

A preview of academic life, and how students can reap its benefits, was given Thursday at the University Convocations Series by President Delyte W. Morris.

"Of the students here this morning, there will be hundreds who will not be here by the end of this quarter, 50 or 60 who will not be here by the end of this week and many who won't be here by the end of this year," Morris said.

Morris spoke at the first convocations program held in the Arena.

"This is an important period," Morris said. "Look at the complete picture and keep in mind to reap the fruits of an education that will be open to you only if you are here."

Morris's address outlined what is in store for students and what they can expect.

He told them to "look closely at the academic survival rate."

"When I tell you this," he

Lake-on-Campus Deserted, Barren In Cool Weather

No stranger on the shore was ever more lonely than Campus Beach was early Thursday afternoon.

It could have been a forgotten backyard sandpile except for four things—a lifeguard, two girls and a lake.

There were none of the sounds of the spring or summer beach—no music, no yelling, no bull-horning lifeguards.

The lifeguard Thursday afternoon talked quietly with the sunbathing girls and shuffled along the edge of the water.

But despite its barrenness so far this week, Campus Beach is still open for use by students and faculty.

It is located directly across Lake-on-the-Campus from Thompson Point. During warm weather, a lifeguard is on duty from 1-7 p.m. daily.

With the onset of cool weather the beach will be closed until late in spring quarter.

The lake was closed to swimming during the break between summer and fall quarters.

the program will be Gordon Ramsey presenting "Lady of Spain" and "Because" on the organ, and Nancy Cook and Company performing a skit, "Little Red Riding Hood."

The first act after the intermission will be Doug Smith, a folk singer, singing "Donna Donna" and "Gold Watch Blues." The next two acts will be Lucinda Lee Pierpont doing a monologue, "I am Waiting," and Van Robinson, a pianist, who will play "Malaguena."

The last two performers are Sandy Wilson and Leighton Rockafellow. Miss Wilson will sing "Climb Every Mountain" and do a monologue, "Phyllis Diller the Authoress."

Rockafellow will sing "Old Man River" and "More."

David S. Margulies will be master of ceremonies.

The show will be open to everyone without charge.

Housing Bids Timetable Set

A timetable, and procedure for applications to live in unsupervised housing, was issued Thursday.

The circular, signed by Ralph W. Ruffner, vice president for student and area services, was distributed in the Arena.

The memorandum cited the large number of such requests, and the continuing large number of vacancies in accepted living quarters. For this reason, decisions will not be reached until after Tuesday; students will be notified by mail of disposition of their cases.

said, "I'm only trying to give you a preview of what can and what does happen."

Morris related fall term in a university to springtime.

"During this time of the year, there is a new flow of blood. New students are coming in and new opportunities are opening up to them," Morris said.

The realization of the importance of studying was one of the major points Morris made. He told students not to let new surroundings interfere with class work. If they did, they would find themselves in academic trouble at the end of the term.

"When this happens," Morris said, "It sometimes takes a year or two for the best student to get back on his feet."

University life should not be one of all study, Morris said. A student should partake actively in social affairs and also should take an interest in his student government.

He told the students that SIU has some of the best facilities in the country.

"We have one of the finest libraries to be found on campuses and towns in the country," he said.

He suggested that students set life goals so that they can achieve what they want.

"Today you are what you are. Next year you will be what you are plus what you have done with yourself," he said.

Administration Isn't Helping To Solve Parking Problem

With the proposed elimination of parking along Campus Drive from the Technology Building to Grand Avenue, an already unbearable situation has been made worse.

To further complicate the parking problem, a number of red and silver permit lots have been changed to blue (staff) only.

Last year the Parking Sec-

Military Power Isn't Answer To Today's World Problems

By Robert M. Hutchins
(Los Angeles Times)

The strongest defense of American foreign policy runs something like this:

The world is in bad shape. Gangsters and brigands are loose in it. Many nations are too small and weak to protect themselves against them. Somebody has to maintain order and protect the small and weak. This responsibility falls to us because we are the only power capable of discharging it. Whenever the territory and independence of a nation are threatened, and it appeals to us to defend it, we must respond because if we do not such world order as there is will collapse.

The argument continues with the recognition that this condition of affairs is unfortunate for us. We would much rather stay at home and build the Great Society. It is embarrassing, moreover, for us to have to be policeman, prosecutor and judge, all rolled into one.

Our motives are suspected, our actions are resented, even by those whom they are intended to benefit. But we can do no other, simply because there is no other to do.

There is no effective world organization, and such a world organization cannot develop out of the United Nations because some of the principal gangsters and brigands belong to it. They have prevented it and will continue to prevent it from acquiring the means to keep disorderly members and non-members in their places.

This is the argument. It is an argument from necessity. But this necessity is visible only to ourselves. Gen. Charles de Gaulle, to say nothing of the Soviet Union and China, does not see our qualifications to run the world, or even Europe, quite as clearly as we do.

In the second place, it is not merely embarrassing to be a judge in one's own cause, it is fatal. This is not simply because other people will suspect us of judging in our own interest. It is because it is impossible for a judge to judge his own cause justly.

A nation that sets itself up to maintain order in the world must end by trying to conquer it because it will inevitably define a gangster or a brigand as anybody who tries to thwart its self-appointed mission.

In the third place, if we spent one-tenth of the money, brains and attention on solving the problems of world organization that we have dedicated to military preparations and military exploits, if we, as the greatest power in the world, devoted ourselves to making the United Nations work, we might not succeed, but at least we might complain with a clearer conscience that we are entitled to have today.

It is significant that two reasons why U Thant resigned his post were the failure to admit mainland China and the war in Viet Nam. The United States is responsible for both.

Finally, the world is not calling for a self-appointed Caesar. The countries of Asia, and Africa in particular, are not asking to be "saved" from communism, certainly not by military power, which, when applied on the American Plan, means the destruction of their property and the corruption of their people.

campus. While it is true that some families may have two vehicles registered and only bring one to campus, or five commuters may form a car pool, the gap between available spaces and registered vehicles is far too great.

When the question of why the changes were made in lot designation or the elimination of Campus Drive parking, the response was "the decision was made at a higher level and I don't know."

Consequently, satisfactory reasons for the changes are not available.

The fact is, though, there are not enough on-campus parking spaces, and the administration has not sought to alleviate the problem, but rather has intensified it.

There is ample room around campus in convenient locations to create asphalt or gravel-base lots. Temporary gravel lots could be set on projected building sites and permanent lots in any number of areas.

As in other administrative decisions, it seems here that the problem solving has been done by caprice rather than sound thought.

World Suffering From Leadership Needs a Follower to Run Things

By Arthur Hoppe
(San Francisco Chronicle)

"Now that Mr. U Thant has quit, they got to find somebody else to run the world," said the Kindly Old Philosopher, whittling away with his kindly old jack-knife. "And I got the ideal candidate."

Who's that?

"Me," he said modestly. "First off, I need the job. If the U.N. wants to help the poor folks of this world, it stands to reason they ought to hire one."

But would he be acceptable to all factions?

"Well, I ain't a Communist," he said. "But I sure ain't a capitalist, neither. Hard as I've tried."

And what of the big Afro-Asian bloc?

"I never met an Afro-Asian

I didn't like," he said with his kindly old smile.

But what of his qualifications? Did he have any leadership ability?

"Not a whit," he said proudly. "I got followership ability. I'm a natural-born bred-in-the-bone follower. That's what makes me an ideal candidate. You look at the mess our leaders have made at running the world. It's high time, son, that one of us followers took over."

He frowned a kindly old frown. "The trouble with leaders," he said, "is they got this hankering to lead. They yearn to tell folks what to do. They burn to run the world. But they don't really give a hang about people. If they did they wouldn't want the job."

How did he mean?

'HERE, SOMEBODY, CATCH!'

'IT'S ANOTHER INSIDIOUS GOVERNMENT ATTEMPT TO CURB PERSONAL FREEDOM'

Many Can't Commune With 'Lord of Silence'

By Jenkin Lloyd Jones

I stopped my car on the Packsaddle Bridge over the ford where Black Kettle's squaws once fled from Custer's men. And I watched the winter sun sink into Oklahoma's Antelope Hills.

Quiet, except for a gentle wind that didn't stir the tumbleweed. Emptiness—no smoke, no traffic, no habitation. Peace.

It occurred to me that many millions of people, on this earth will never see such peace. Increasingly, as the world population moves from three billion toward six and ten, there will be human beings who will live out their lives without having once communed with what Rabindranath Tagore called "the Lord of Silence."

The concentration of individuals becomes a crowd, and the crowd becomes the enemy of the individual. Jam mankind together and the milk of human kindness sours. The New York cab driver is a prodigy of cynicism and exasperation. No wonder. His day is 10,000 frustrations because people cross his path or hinder his progress.

JONES

"Now if you think of these folks as people, it'll get you down. What kind of a world is this I'm running?" you'll say. "What did I do wrong?" And you'll be washing down your aspirins with Pepto-Bismol.

"But a leader, he won't think of them as people. He'll think of them as so many Vietnamese, Indians, Syrians or Israelis. Just numbers. And he'll confidently tell everybody what to do. Positive he's right. Even though things get worse and worse."

"Yep, what the world suffers from is leadership. And the man we need to run things is a kindly, gentle, loving follower like me who don't give a fig for power, prestige or ordering folks around."

But then why would he want a job like that?

"Now you're down to the nitty-gritty, son," he said, thumping his kindly old cane on the floor. "I got the one quality absolutely essential to running the world in a decent, sensible fashion."

What's that?

"I wouldn't take the job," said the Kindly Old Philosopher, "for all the tea in China."

After thinking the matter over, I concluded sadly that he was right and assured him that as long as he felt that way he could count on my wholehearted support.

The other evening coming into Chicago on the plane I sat next to a young doctor who is about to finish his residency in one of the big hospitals. And then?

"They think I'm crazy," he said. "But I'm going back to that little cowtown I come from and take up general practice. I know a city specialist has prestige. But this morning I borrowed my dad's quarter horse and rode around four sections without having to open a gate. That's my kind of life."

Wordsworth wrote: The world is too much with us, late and soon, Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers. Little there is of heaven that is ours.

There's nothing to see from the Packsaddle Bridge but a streak of muddy water, an ocean of grass, and a lot of Heaven.

Health Service 12-Bed Infirmary Will Operate on 24-Hour Basis

A 12-bed infirmary has been opened at the Health Service, according to Dr. Richard V. Lee.

The fully staffed and equipped infirmary will operate 24 hours a day and is expected to relieve the load on community hospitals, said Dr. Lee, director of University Health Services.

Opening of the infirmary completes expansion of Health Service facilities begun in January when the unit moved to a remodeled former residence hall at 115 Small Group Housing.

Robert C. Waldron, assistant administrator, said Health Service facilities in the new building include 24-hour emergency room and emergency vehicle service, complete x-ray and laboratory, pharmacy, and clinic open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

There are eight full-time and three part-time physicians to provide medical diagnosis and treatment for the approximately 19,000 students.

Clinical services are provided free to all students who pay the University activity fee, while a nominal charge is made for infirmary care, drugs and emergency services, Waldron said.

Students pay $4.15 of their student activity fee each quarter towards the maintenance of the Health Service.

Housing, Vehicles Topics

Senate Will Meet Wednesday Night

The Campus Senate will hold its first official meeting of the 1966-67 school year at 7:25 p.m. Wednesday in the University Center Ballroom.

Contrary to the implication in the headline and first paragraph in Thursday's Egyptian concerning the Senate, the senators have not officially met nor formally accepted or rejected the new administration policies concerning housing and vehicles.

Bob Drinan, student body president, said Wednesday's meeting is open to all students and urged that they attend.

Issues on the agenda for the first meeting include a discussion on housing and vehicle ownership, the presentation of a Senate study on motorcycles, and a report on the new Blue Cross health insurance program by Dr. Richard V. Lee of the Health Service.

Drinan said the bill on Senate reapportionment will probably be brought up, but he doubts that it will pass.

Senate meetings this year will be held at different places both on and off campus. Drinan said the move to hold meetings at different places around the community was to enable more students to attend them and take a more active part in their student government.

Representing the students this year are 21 senators. Action Party members are Robert E. Saleg, Ricahrd D. Karr, Lynne D. Murdock, Barbara S. Arms, Robert C. Carter, Stafford C. Loveland, Bardwell W. Grosse, Howard Z. Layfer, Jill K. Ward, Virginia E. Benning, Paul G. Schoen, W. Larry Busch, David A. Wilson, Lawrence R. Bockman and Tim Rhine.

Dynamic Party senators are William C. Potter, John Belt, Theresa G. Steingrubby and Michael J. Norton.

Unaffiliated senators are Raymond S. Baker and Hedayat Aminarsala.

Goldberg Offers U.S. Withdrawal If Hanoi Will Take Same Steps

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (AP)— The United States offered Thursday to halt the bombing of North Viet Nam and begin a phased withdrawal of U.S. troops if the Hanoi government will take corresponding steps to de-escalate the Vietnamese war.

In a major policy declaration, U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg told the General Assembly that the United States is willing to take the first step if the North Vietnamese government will indicate by private or public response that it is ready to match the U.S. action.

He gave new assurances that the United States is not seeking to impose a policy of alignment on South Viet Nam and that the United States does not intend to maintain permanent military bases in that country.

And, in an indirect reply to criticism from U.N. secretary General U Thant, Goldberg declared: "We are not engaged in a holy war against communism."

Numerous foreign ministers sat among the 118 delegations in the assembly chamber. Neither U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk nor Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was present, however.

Goldberg declared the United States was ready to begin a phased withdrawal from South Viet Nam if the Communists would agree to withdraw their troops under effective supervision.

ARTHUR J. GOLDBERG

He posed these two questions to North Viet Nam:

"Would it, in the interest of peace, and in response to a prior cessation by the United States of the bombing of North Viet Nam, take corresponding and timely steps to reduce or bring to an end its own military activities against South Viet Nam?"

Goldberg repeated once more the U.S. position that the role of the Viet Cong in peace negotiations was a question which could be solved by discussions.

"Our view on this matter," he said, "was stated by President Johnson, who made clear that, as far as we are concerned, this question would not be 'an insurmountable problem'. We invite the authorities in Hanoi to consider whether this obstacle to negotiations may not be more imaginary than real."

The points raised by Goldberg dealt with the subjects raised in a three-point peace plan advanced some time ago by U.N. Secretary-General U Thant. Thant had urged a cessation of the U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam, a phased withdrawal of troops and inclusion of all parties in peace talks.

Coed Slain In Arizona

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—An Arizona State University coed was stabbed to death outside a downtown hotel Wednesday night.

The girl, Laura E. Bernstein, 20, of Fair Lawn, N.J., was a junior living off campus.

The girl was stabbed twice in the head and four times in the back and side. A bicycle chain was clutched in one of her hands when children found the body under an arch in a darkened corner of the hotel's outside walkway.

She had been sharing an apartment with Miss Jinx Livingston, a freshman from Palo Verde Estates, a suburb of Los Angeles.

Miss Livingston said Miss Bernstein had transferred this year from Bradley University in Peoria, Ill., so that she could be near her fiancé who is attending the Arizona school.

PICKUP AT SEA—Thirteen Cubans are rescued from a flimsy boat and box-like raft Tuesday afternoon by a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter. The rescue took place near Cay Sal, about 70 miles south of Miami. The Coast Guard reported all the refugees were in good condition.

Powell Stripped of Powers By His Committee Members

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., was stripped of many of his powers as chairman today by a 27-1 vote of the House Education and Labor Committee. Powell agreed to go along with a rebellious majority of his committee, and thus averted a fight that had headed toward a showdown over new rules.

Only Rep. William H. Ayres of Ohio, the senior GOP committeeman, voted against the new rules. "I voted no because I don't believe in hypocrisy," he said.

Powell, Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., and Rep. Augustus F. Hawkins, D-Calif., abstained from voting.

Ayres called the closed-door session "a fiasco" and said the rules changes don't mean anything because the committee's work is done for the session and new rules will have to be adopted in January.

Powell indicated he views the outcome as a victory. Puffing a cigar and smiling at the

August Price Rise Fastest in Decade

WASHINGTON (AP)—The upward swing of prices continued last month at the fastest rate in 10 years, boosting living costs another four-tenths of one per cent, the government said Thursday.

The August rise was most noticeable at the supermarket, the doctor's office and the used car lot.

With food up 1.3 per cent, used cars up 1.5 per cent and medical care five-tenths of one per cent higher, the Labor Department's consumer price index climbed from 113.3 to 113.8.

This means it took $11.38 for typical family purchases that cost $10 in the 1957-59 base period, including food, clothing, housing, transportation and recreation.

huge crowd that packed the committee room after the meeting, he said the committee had merely reaffirmed the rules of the House under which all committees are supposed to operate.

Powell said he was willing to have the same rules adopted next January and hoped that other House committees would do the same.

Before the closed session ended, two Republicans emerged and criticized the proceedings without going into detail.

"There's a lynching going on in there," said Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y.

Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, who had announced plans to vote against Powell, said: "I'm convinced he's fairer than three-fourths of the Democrats trying to reform him."

Surveyor 2 Written Off

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—All hope of landing America's Surveyor 2 spacecraft gently on the moon disappeared Thursday when scientists decided "there's not enough power left in the battery to complete the mission."

"We just kissed it goodbye," a spokesman for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory said. "Even if we got it stabilized there wouldn't be enough power left to operate the landing system's radar."

That means, he said, that the tumbling spacecraft would smash into the moon Thursday night and be destroyed.

"We tried one final time to jar the rocket motor into action, but all it did was make the spacecraft tumble faster," he said.

It was tumbling at about 146 revolutions per minute until the final action which ended the mission—firing the 9,000-pound-thrust retrorocket in the bottom of the spacecraft.

Lindsay Intercedes In Harlem

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay went to an embattled Harlem school Thursday and declared that parents should not have veto power over selection of principals and teachers. He arrived as three demonstrators were arrested.

It was the mayor's first entry into the touchy situation at Intermediate School 201, where Negro parents have clashed with police and school authorities over their demand for a Negro principal and control of school policy and staffing.

Pickets paraded outside the school at the start of classes, but in contrast to Wednesday there was no violence. The school's white principal, Stanley Lissner, entered the building almost unnoticed as 35 demonstrators remained behind police barricades.

Three persons were arrested, however. Five persons were arrested Wednesday in a wild melee. Stockley Carmichael, a leading advocate of "black power," was among the demonstrators today, as he was Wednesday.

Some 400 pupils showed up for classes, despite attempts by pickets to dissuade them from going into the $5-million showcase school. Five hundred pupils are registered.

Civil rights leaders have threatened to turn the school into a "national battleground."

GM Boosts Car Prices

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors said its price adjustments "for both optional items made standard and new product improvements average $56 for all passenger cars."

GM said, as the other two members of the automotive Big Three did earlier, that the price adjustments did not include any provision to "recover increased wage and fringe benefits for workers or increased prices paid for steel, copper and other materials."

GM said the top increase on its 177 models was $89.

Cuban Exile Group Claims Setting Explosion in Canada

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Cuban exile revolutionary group, which claims it tried to blow up Karl Marx' tomb in London last year and bombed a Cuban ship in Montreal in 1964, said Thursday its men set off an explosion at the Cuban Embassy in Ottawa, Canada.

Felipe Rivero Diaz, head of the Cuban Nationalist Association, said a bomb placed over the Marx tomb in Highgate Cemetery in September 1965, was discovered before it exploded. He said the freighter Santa Maria was damaged by a bomb his men planted in October 1964.

Of the embassy explosion, he said in a public announcement:

"Secret cells of the movement which I direct told me this morning of the success of the action which they carried out."

"Canada," he said, "has been chosen for the initiation of the war against communism because of the insulting and provocative attitude maintained by the Canadian government with respect to the tragedy of the Cuban people enslaved by international communism."

Australian Plane Explodes Killing 24

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) — An Australian airliner caught fire and exploded in the air northwest of Brisbane Thursday, killing all 24 persons aboard.

The bodies of two children were found in the scattered wreckage 12 miles from Winton, and 715 miles from Brisbane. The plane was operated by Ansett-Australian National Airlines on a run from Mount Isa to Brisbane.

The death toll was the second highest in the history of Australian civil aviation, surpassed only in 1960 when 29 persons were killed in a crash near Mackay, Queensland.

Possible Percy Slaying Clue Is Found in Lake Michigan

KENILWORTH (AP) — Police Chief Robert M. Daley announced Thursday a bayonet had been found in Lake Michigan about 800 feet south of the mansion where Valerie Percy, 21, was murdered early Sunday.

The chief said a Coast Guard dragging crew had recovered the bayonet about 40 feet out from the beach.

Percy Thinks Foo Should Campaign

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles H. Percy, Republican candidate for U.S. Senator whose daughter was slain Sunday, says "it would be unfair" for his opponent, Democrat Sen. Paul Douglas, to suspend his campaigning indefinitely because of Percy's bereavement.

Percy wired Douglas that he and his wife appreciated the generosity of Douglas "to suspend your campaign activities." However, Percy said, "it is impossible to say at this time when I will be able to resume my own candidacy." He added:

"However, I think it would be unfair to expect you to suspend yours indefinitely. Therefore, whenever you resume your campaign, I will understand completely."

Percy, his wife and children left their suburban Kenilworth home Wednesday. The investigation into the slaying of their daughter, Valerie, 21, as she slept at home is continuing.

State School Supt. Ray Page and State Rep. Harris Rowe announced Thursday that they will resume campaign activities Wednesday.

Page, candidate for reelection in November, and Rowe, candidate for state treasurer, said they have abstained from campaigning this week out of respect for Percy.

Investigators have found indications that the daughter of industrialist Charles H. Percy had been stabbed with a double-edged knife as well as being struck twice on the head with a blunt instrument.

In response to news conference questions, Daley said, "It is possible this weapon could have been used."

The chief said that a private beach runs from the Percy residence to the point where the bayonet was found, and, he added, it would have been easy to run down the beach to the area where the bayonet was recovered.

Daley described the bayonet as of regular Army type with a 10-inch blade. It was found in four feet of water, but Daley could not estimate how long it had been in the water. But he did say it was not rusted.

He also said the bayonet has been sent to the Chicago Police Department Crime Laboratory for inspection.

Daley said he had not been informed as to whether a bayonet of this type had been kept in the Percy house.

Tightened Vehicle Regulations Eliminate Greek 'House-Cars'

Parking stickers for cars intended for general use by social fraternities and sororities will not be issued this year, according to Joseph F. Zaleski, assistant dean for off-campus housing and motor vehicle registration.

The "house-cars" were used for group transportation, and fraternity and sorority business. They were parked in the Small Group Housing area.

Zaleski said under the recently instituted stricter enforcement of University statutes governing housing and transportation, "we could find no justification" for issuing the stickers.

"There will be no house-cars as such," Zaleski said.

"Stickers will still be issued to individuals residing in Small Group Housing who qualify for them," Zaleski added. He gave as examples graduate students and disabled students.

Zaleski said that one proposal under consideration calls for the purchase of one or more vehicles for use in the Small Group Housing area.

He explained that perhaps the fraternities might collectively purchase a station wagon or panel truck for general use. The sororities might undertake a similar project, he said.

"One vehicle might be enough to serve the needs of both groups," Zaleski said.

A spokesman at the Small Group Housing Area Office said the situation is being surveyed and proposals will be studied.

'Half a Sixpence' Will Open New Series

Oct. 1 With 2 Performances in Shryock

The first production of the newly initiated Celebrity Series, the musical "Half a Sixpence" will be presented at 5:15 and 9:30 p.m. Oct. 1 in Shryock Auditorium.

Tickets are on sale today at the Office of Student Activities in the University Center. They are priced at $1, $2 and $3. Tickets may be obtained by The musical is an adaption of the novel "Kipps" written by H.G. Wells.

It is the story of London circa 1900 and deals with the trials of a poor draper's apprentice. It has been called "how to fail in business without really trying."

Kipps will be played by Kenneth Nelson, backed by Byron Webster, Colette Melville, Marianne McAndrews and Gayle Sheppard.

Nelson was the star of the Broadway production of "Seventeen." He appeared in "The Fantasticks" on Broadway, and later succeeded Anthony Newley as the star of "Stop the World—I want to Get Off."

The dancing in this production ranges from ballet to music hall routines.

The show played for two years at the Cambridge Theatre in London and for two seasons at the Broadhurst Theater in New York. It closed last July.

The Celebrity Series is a new addition to the entertainment scene this year at Southern.

Seven productions have been scheduled during the coming year in Shryock Auditorium. The next performance on Nov. 12 will be Ferrante and Teicher, pianists.

Botanist Offers Advice

Crystal-Clear Water May Look Pretty But Muddy Lake Is Better for Drinking

By Bob Haring

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) -- A crystal clear stream may be pretty, but when it comes to drinking water, look for a nice muddy river.

That's the advice of Clarence Taft, an Ohio State University botanist who has spent 36 years studying plants which sometimes give the purest water a terrible taste.

"Muddy water is good water," Taft said in an interview.

He explained that muddy water shuts out light, which prevents growth of algae, water plants that sometimes cause trouble with water treatment. The mud particles also absorb offending chemicals.

Add a few rapids or riffles to a muddy stream and you've really got a good water source, he added, explaining that the bubbling of the water in such shallows aerates it, removing by oxidation other offending chemicals which cause odors and bad taste.

Even foul-tasting water can be purified so it's safe to drink. But nobody yet has figured out how to filter out the flavor imparted by some of the 30,000 forms of algae—though Taft estimates researchers have been working on the problem for more than 60 years.

Well water doesn't have algae problems, though it might have a mineral taste picked up from underground rocks. The plants need light, water and food to grow.

Algae grow best in stagnant or polluted water — and with increasing urbanization, problems of algae-flavored water are bound to get worse, Taft said.

In Ohio, for instance, about half the population now depends for drinking water on surface sources, rivers or lakes. Where there's a body of water, there's bound to be algae.

Most algae cause no troubles. The most common forms are the larger ones, which resemble seaweed (which is an algae).

The bothersome varieties are microscopic. And they seem to thrive most in dry weather, when lakes and rivers mean less water to dilute the algae taste, Taft said.

Low water also means more light penetrates to help the plants grow. And low water also is more likely to bring small stagnant pools which create food for the algae.

Nobody knows for sure just why some forms of algae give water an offending taste. Taft, who has specialized in studying algae since 1929, speculates that it results from decomposition of proteins from the dead plant cells. But he said it could be part of the plants' growing process which does the flavoring.

Algae aren't the only plants which can cause bad-tasting water.

Some reservoirs over the years have built up deposits of decaying plants and organic matter in the bottom. Given the right weather conditions, these lakes "turn over," bringing organic-flavored water to the surface where it's more likely to be picked up for processing into drinking water.

A reservoir "turn over" will result from a cool period following a prolonged warm spell. Hot weather raises the water temperature. A little cooling lowers the temperature of the surface water, making it heavier than the warmer water on the bottom.

This in turn creates more algae problems. Bringing organic water to the surface, Taft said, provides food for algae "just like going out and fertilizing a crop of corn."

Even the biggest bodies of water — such as the Great Lakes — are likely to have algae problems which can result in foul-tasting drinking water.

Well water, though it has no problems with algae, may have an offending taste—or "hard" properties — from various minerals. Minerals can be removed, however.

Harmon football highlights

Take a quick peek at the games on tap for this weekend and you'll see that the good old schedule-makers didn't let any grass grow under their feet. They've uncorked some early season meanees for the weak at heart. So hang on tight, and we'll crawl out on that ever-lovin' limb with our ever-lovin' crystal ball.

Michigan State, No. 1, is going to puncture Penn State by 21 points . . . Nebraska, No. 14, will "ultimate" Utah State by four touchdowns . . . UCLA, No. 2, should singe Syracuse by 25 . . . and Arkansas, No. 10, is favored to trip 15th-ranked Tulsa by just two points.

In a warmer-upper Saturday, Alabama will come out of summer seclusion at the expense of Louisiana Tech. The Crimson Tide will hold about a 35-point better hand.

And for the contrast -- real heat -- look at Notre Dame - Purdue. The riveters, rated 12th after a 39-point romp over Ohio U., tackle the Irish in South Bend. The winner: Notre Dame by 12 points. (Is that our ever-lovin' limb that's cracking?)

Tennessee, fifth last fall, and Ohio State, No. 10 in '65, make 1966 debuts Saturday. The Vols are 15 - point favorites over Auburn, and the Buckeyes should be in the driver's seat against T.C.U. The difference, seven points.

And how about these little Southern scraps! Florida, an early number 4 in the rankings, should slither over Mississippi State by 20, and Miami, Florida, No. 8, will muscle by Florida State by 13. Heads it's Kentucky -- tails it's 13th-ranked Mississippi. It's tails: Ole Miss by six.

West Coasters California and Southern Cal both have dates with Big Teners. The Bears are three touchdown underdogs to 3rd-ranked Michigan while Southern Cal, No. 5, is 28 points too tough for Wisconsin.

Salukis Suspected

Writer Assists in Spy Hunt And Finds Himself as Culprit

Fans attending last Saturday night's football game against Wichita State may have noticed a short time-out called by the officials as a gentleman briefly roamed the north end zone.

The man was quickly whisked off by the officials, while the visiting Shockers must have whispered spy.

An even better spy story was disclosed by Peoria Journal Star sports editor Paul King.

It seems that a former sports writer for the Journal Star moved recently to Wichita and the football action of Wichita State was part of his beat.

Prior to the Wichita-SIU game, rumor on the Wichita campus had it that a spy from Southern was on the loose.

The recently-moved sports-writer, Max Seibel, pounced on the story and figured he had a hot thing going.

After digging down to the root of the rumor, however, his search for the spy ended.

An Illinois license plate on a car constantly seen around the practice field had started all the speculation.

Seibel found that he was the suspected culprit, for the old Land of Lincoln plates were still on his car.

SIU Swim Coach Guided Winners

Ralph Casey, who resigned as head swimming coach, amassed an envious career mark while at SIU.

In his nine years, the Salukis suffered only one losing season with a 2-4 mark in 1961-62 while producing an overall record of 47 wins and 18 losses.

Beginning with the 1957-58 year, Casey's season records in dual competition were 5-3, 6-2, 6-1, 7-1, 2-4, 3-3, 6-1, 7-2 and 5-1.

Basketball Squad Reports Oct. 15; First Game Is Dec. 5 in Arena

A reminder that basketball season is just around the corner may be necessary for avid football fans, but chances are its not for basketball fans.

For the SIU Salukis, the 22-game basketball season will open Dec. 5 with the first 12 games. Coach Jack Hartman's squad will report for practice Oct. 15.

This year's team will not include many of those who led SIU to its straight runner-up spot in the NCAA College Division Tournament last season. But two of the regulars will return.

One is Clarence Smith, a forward who played in all 29 games last year, averaged 11.3 points a game and was second to Boyd O'Neal in rebounding. The other is Ralph Johnson, who was used as a spot starter when he was not injured and averaged 5.8 points per game.

Reserves Roger Bechrold, Ed Zastrow and Jay Westcott also return and are expected to contend for the starting positions vacated by Dave Lee, George McNeil, Randy Goin and O'Neal.

Expected to bolster this year's Salukis is the return of Walt Frazier, a second team Little All-American choice as a sophomore two years ago. Frazier led the 1964-65 Salukis in rebounding and scored 17.1 points per game.

An impressive array of sophomores is up from last year's freshman team, which compiled a 13-2 record. The frosh lost only to Paducah Junior College and the Bradley freshmen.

Among the sophomores making a bid for varsity berths are: Eldo Garrett of Centalla, Willie Griffin of Detroit, Creston Whitaker of Jacksonville and Lynn Howerton of Carbondale.

In addition to the 12 home games, the Salukis will compete in the Sun Bowl Tournament during the Christmas holiday season. The other schools taking part in that event are Drake, Texas Western and Southern Methodist.

Coach Lutz Calls Freshman Team For Opening Drill

Football practice for the freshman team will begin Monday and Coach Joe Lutz has only two weeks to prepare his squad for the opening game Oct. 10.

The freshmen will play a five-game schedule. The first game will be with Southeast Missouri State in Cape Girardeau. The other road game will be at the University of Louisville freshmen Nov. 12.

Home games will be with Memphis State, Oct. 15; Louisville, Oct. 22; and Southeast Missouri, Oct. 31.

The Salukis posted a 2-2 record last year. They defeated the Southeast Missouri Junior Varsity, 20-7, and Tennessee Tech, 20-18. Losses were to Southeast Missouri, 13-6, and Memphis State, 21-6.

Fall Schedule Planned

New Coach Guides Baseball Salukis to Victories

By Mike Schwebel

When Joe Lutz took over as Southern's head baseball coach last spring, he came out swinging and hasn't stopped yet.

The personable mentor, a former major leaguer with the old St. Louis Browns, came to play. And during the spring and summer the Salukis managed to play 82 games.

Despite a young and inexperienced squad, Lutz ended that season with a 27-19 record and the team earned a berth in the NCAA regional tournament in the University Division.

AFL Linebacker Is Army Bound

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Bob Mitinger, linebacker for the San Diego Chargers, is scheduled to report to the Army Oct. 10 for active duty as a first lieutenant in the military police.

Coach Sid Gillman said he may announce a replacement for Mitinger this week.

Lutz did even a more remarkable job in summer league ball, coaching a team of nearly all freshmen to a 24-12 record.

The Salukis took runner-up honors in the Midwest Collegiate Summer League, placing behind strong Parsons College and above the St. Louis Billikens.

Lutz then, in his first year, headed his team to 51 wins against 31 losses for a .662 winning percentage—not bad in a year of almost total rebuilding.

The future for Saluki baseball appears bright and Lutz, unlike most coaches, is about as optimistic as one can be.

"Give me two years and we'll be right up there around the top," he said at the beginning.

The way things appear, Lutz may be right.

No less than 17 pitching candidates will report for fall practice as Lutz continues the baseball program on a year-around bases.

Nearly all of them have shown they are capable of winning, and the battle for jobs in the spring should uncover the best of the groups.

In the hitting department, where the Salukis have lagged most of all, it appears that it will be a matter of thinning out the crop for spring.

Veteran outfielders, such as Paul Pavesich, Rich Collins and Russ Keene among others, will have to fight off the youngsters who gained valuable experience in the summer.

Meeting Scheduled For Track Squad

A meeting for all persons interested in competing on the track and cross-country teams has been called for 3:15 p.m. today in Room 123 of the Arena.

Lew Hartzog, track coach, said all members of the track squad are to attend and requested that other interested persons also attend.

"The meeting is open to anyone," he said. "But this will be the only opportunity to join the squad. We will give anyone who wants to try out a chance."

Around the infield, the lineup is anybody's guess. Five catchers who have all seen some action are expected to return.

The fall baseball program is already scheduled through the end of October, with four separate squads competing.

The annual spring trip is set, with the team going south during the winter — spring quarter break.

The first annual Governor's Tournament has also been set up by Lutz, with Governor Otto Kerner scheduled to be on hand to present the winning team trophy.

Arkansas State, the University of Illinois, the Chicago Branch of the U. of I., Eastern Illinois, Western Illinois and the host Salukis will compete. The tournament is set for April 14-15-16.

The SIU diamond southwest of the Arena has taken on a new look since the arrival of Lutz.

The most recent addition has been the gravel warning track around the outfield.

The manicured grass infield, the enclosed bullpen and the modern dugouts make the diamond one of the finest collegiate playing fields in this area.

Only lights are missing, and, well, Lutz is working on that.

SIU Ranked As Leader In Football

NEW YORK (AP)—North Dakota State, Southern Illinois and North Dakota University are back at their 1965 routine of pushing each other around for the right to lead The Associated Press' weekly poll among small college football teams.

The North Dakota Bisons, now coached by Ron Erhardt, defeated the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee branch, and St. Thomas in their first two games this season and garnered two first place votes and 106 points from the 16 experts who make up the AP panel.

Southern Illinois, also with a new coach in the person of Ellis Rainsberger, fought its way past Wichita 17-7 in its lone start this season and also drew two first-place votes but only 70 points. North Dakota, winner of two, was awarded only one first place vote and 68 points.

Other teams in the Top Ten, in order, are: Weber State, Montana State, Sul Ross, San Diego State, Southwest Texas, Akron and Florida A&M. None has been defeated.

Wheels Night Set For Next Friday

Wheels Night, which was incorrectly reported in Thursday's Egyptian as being held tonight, will be held one week from tonight, Sept. 30.

It will begin at 7:30 p.m. and representatives from service groups, honorary and voluntary organizations will be in the Agriculture Building to discuss their organizations with interested freshmen and transfer students.

Cards Picked for MVC Title

Louisville Rates as Stiff Test for Salukis

The Salukis' victory over Wichita last Saturday was a pleasant surprise and may have been an indication that SIU is a better team this year than many had anticipated.

But this Saturday should be an even better indication when the Salukis tangle with the Louisville Cardinals, who are rated as the probable winner of the Missouri Valley Conference. The game will be at 7:30 p.m. in McAndrew Stadium.

Coach Frank Camp's team was second in the MVC last year behind the Tulsa Hurricanes, who also received a bowl bid. The Hurricanes lost in the Bluebonnet Bowl to Tennessee, a pre-season pick this year to finish in the top 10 across the nation.

In addition to the conference standing Camp won the MCV Coach of the Year award, the Cardinals had one of the top five passing games in the nation and several players won all-conference honors.

Although Louisville has lost All-American linebacker Doug Buffone, the team should still have a strong defensive unit.

Eighteen of the top 22 players have returned. Louisville's offensive line should average about 212 pounds.

Their defensive forward wall will probably average about 225 pounds.

The Salukis will face one of the top quarterbacks in the Midwest in Benny Russell, who threw 11 touchdown passes last year and gained an average of 180 yards a game on passes. Southern will need the hard rush they showed against Wichita last Saturday in order to stop Russell. Russell's favorite targets are end Jim Zamberlan and halfback Mike Dennis.

The Cardinals utilize a prototype offense and usually take to the air often. They have a big defense with plenty of depth, and an all-junior-senior starting lineup.

Southern and Louisville play four mutual opponents this year—Drake, Wichita, North Texas and East Carolina. The Cardinals dumped Wichita 30-10 late in the season last year.

They also beat Drake 32-17, North Texas 29-21 and lost to Tulsa 51-18 to finish the season 3-1 in the Missouri Valley. Louisville beat Southern 13-0 early last season.

The Cardinals have never won a championship in the MCV and Camp hopes that his twenty-first year at Louisville will be the big one and most of the so-called experts like his chances.

This will be a big weekend for Southern. A lot of questions will be answered by the performance of the Salukis and a good game may establish the victory over Wichita as indicative of things to come in the SIU football future.

Tickets Still Available In Arena Office For Pro Basketball Game Here Tonight

Tickets are still available for the pre-season professional basketball game to be played at 8 p.m. today in the Arena.

Tickets will be on sale all day at the Arena ticket office.

Competing will be the St. Louis Hawks and the Detroit Pistons. A special attraction will be the appearance of two former Saluki players, George McNeil and Charlie Vaughn.

Both play for the Pistons. Vaughn is a four-year veteran in the pro ranks and McNeil is a rookie. Both are expected to play.

McNeil won Little All-America honors last year at SIU when he scored 528 points for an 18.2 average a game. Vaughn is holder of several scoring records at SIU.

CARDINAL RECEIVER—Wayne Patrick, a junior fullback, grabs a pass, demonstrating his versatility. Last year Patrick, who is 6 feet 2 and weighs 221 pounds, was the leading rusher for the Louisville Cardinals with 428 yards. He was named "Sophomore Back of the Year" in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Extension Division Offers 38 Courses

The Division of Extension will offer 38 college credit courses in 24 Illinois communities this fall, according to Raymond H. Dey, dean of the division.

Courses in family living, engineering, community development, foreign languages, literature, mathematics, shorthand, typing, research methods and reading will be offered.

Among communities taking part in the program are Anna, Carrollton, Centralia, East St. Louis, Edwardsville, Mount Carmel, Mount Vernon, Murphysboro, Olney, Quincy, Sparta, Springfield, Valmeyer, Vandalia, Vienna and West Frankfort.

AND THIS IS THE CANNON—A new student week leader uses the base of the cannon in front of Old Main as a foot rest while explaining the cannon's tradition to a group of freshmen boys. It is still a mystery why the cannon, which has been painted every imaginable color and even tarred and feathered, is on campus.

SIU Plans to Air TV From Olney in Year

SIU's educational television station near Olney is expected to be on the air about a year from now, barring unforeseen difficulties.

Buren C. Robbins, director of the SIU Broadcasting Services, said various unresolved problems will curtail any material action toward establishing the station before mid-

Meeting Set On Prison Management

Prison wardens from throughout the Midwest will convene here Oct. 3 for a five-day conference on penal management and administration.

The conference will be at Carbondale's Holiday Inn, and is the fourth in a series of nationwide meetings conducted by the American Correctional Association (ACA). They are supported through a grant from the U.S. Department of Justice, Office of Law Enforcement Assistance.

Coordinator of the Carbondale conference will be James Hughes, assistant professor in SIU's Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections. E. Preston Sharp, executive secretary of the ACA, will be overall director.

Hughes said the meeting will include discussions of new penal legislation, techniques of rehabilitation, and modern approaches to prison administration. Some 55 wardens from midwestern state prisons are expected.

November. Then the severity of the winter could effect construction once it is started, he said.

Robbins said SIU has purchased 40 acres of land in Preston Township, Richland County, for erection of a tower that will rise nearly 1,000 feet, a building to house the transmitting equipment and a small studio.

The station's call letters, he said, have been designated as WUSI-TV. It will operate on UHF channel 16. The station's power to transmit will be about the same as WSIU-TV (Channel 8), the University station which has its tower near Tamaroa and which covers a radius of approximately 55 to 60 miles.

Programming hours will be about the same as WSIU-TV. Practically all the programming, at least in the early stages, will be duplications of programs from the Carbondale campus VHF station. It will relay educational TV to school classrooms and homes on the fringe and outside the existing coverage area.

The U.S. Office of Health, Education and Welfare released a grant of $400,381 in February to help finance construction of the station. A matching amount has been appropriated to SIU from state funds.

Clark Returns From Inspection

SIU Viet Nam Education Program May Expand

The dean of SIU's College of Education sees the possibility of a moderate expansion of SIU's education program in South Viet Nam.

Dean Elmer J. Clark, who inspected programs in South Viet Nam and Mali during a world trip in August, said SIU's education team may become more active in curriculum advisement in the training of elementary school teachers and place more emphasis on preparation of normal school faculties.

Currently, he said, there has been emphasis on development of school facilities, especially in outlying areas where they are crude. Under contract with the Agency for International Development (AID), SIU since 1961 has had a team of educators in South Viet Nam, where it has helped develop the program for training students to be elementary teachers.

Clark, who visited an outlying normal school at Vinh Long, the University of Saigon and the Saigon normal school, held a number of conferences with SIU and AID staff members. He said there is no doubt that the wartime conditions which have forced SIU families to depart have worked a hardship on the staff. However, he said, most staff members have placed their families in safe havens relatively close and can visit them about once a month.

The Vietnamese people, Harold Reents Named School Superintendent

Harold L. Reents, who obtained his Ph.D. degree in education at commencement Sept. 2, has accepted the post as superintendent of schools at Litchfield, his home town.

Reents was coordinator of student work at SIU while working on his doctorate.

Reents was graduated from Litchfield High School in 1952. He obtained his bachelor's degree from Western Illinois University in 1956 and his master's in education at SIU in 1959.

Clark said, appreciate what the United States is doing there and live with the apprehension that the Americans will be pulled out and leave the nation in a precarious position.

The U.S. educators have no critical problems at the moment from the Viet Cong, he said, because the enemy efforts have been directed toward the military and have not been harassing educational operations.

Clark said he would recommend more faculty support on the SIU campus for Southern's team. He suggested a faculty committee comprised of members who have served in Viet Nam to offer advice regarding the educational direction of the team and to help the group by sending materials and suggestions. He also suggested the advisability of a campus conference pertaining to Viet Nam, to which AID and other Washington officials would be invited.

In Mali, Clark visited the SIU team headed by Eric Sturley that is helping the new African republic set up a pedagogical institute.

Clark described Mali as a socialistic state where Russian and Chinese Communists have been active but where, in spite of apparent conflict in political philosophies, the SIU team members have established themselves as being among the most important Americans in the country.

Relations have been good with the minister of education, Abdoulaye Singare, a friend of SIU President DeLyte W. Morris. Clark said he saw no big problems in Mali, except for conflict of philosophies.

En route to Viet Nam, Clark visited in Hong Kong with the family of Cho-Yee To, a doctoral student here, and inspected New Asia College, where he talked with its president, Tsuin-Chen Ou. Clark said the college president has a special interest in SIU because of the John Dewey project, in which works of the noted educator are being compiled for publication by the SIU Press. President Ou has visited the Dewey headquarters, directed by George Axtelle, on campus.

It's Not Like High School

Big New World Called College Frightens, Confuses Freshmen

By Margaret Perez

College life to a freshman is a big, confusing, frightening world. Entering a university like SIU is not like the first day at high school — it's much grander, and much more exciting.

The first days are a whirlwind of unforgettable, sometimes embarrassing, events — not like high school, and no one pretends they are.

The new freshman feels rather adult when he discovers that he's not a boy or a girl any more, but a man or a woman — and that's what he'll be called.

At the same time, he feels like a gawking kid groping around in a freshman green beanie, hesitating to ask questions for fear the veteran students will laugh.

However, he'll learn the "ins" and "outs" of college life. For example, he'll soon learn it's "out" to talk about his high school life and "in" to talk about the big game on Friday night or the University Center dance.

And then there is registration, the most harrowing, confusing mess a freshman will ever have to go through at college. After hours of standing in line, he'll be discouraged and tired. But all that's left is classes.

And when classes start, the freshman begins to notice the differences between high school and college.

In high school, it was almost impossible to cut a class. In college he'll notice that many professors don't even notice if a student attends or not, although there will be some who will be sticklers about taking attendance.

In high school, the freshman was probably confident of at least a "B" on every paper turned in. But in college he just may get the first "E" of his life. This will probably come on his first essay in freshman English class. It's almost a tradition on some campuses.

In high school, the students were Joe or Jane to their teachers. In college, the instructors (notice that they're not called teachers any more) will call their students Mr. Jones or Miss Smith.

In high school, if the teacher had to miss a day or two for a convention or illness, a substitute was called in. In college, the instructor will simply call off the class for the days he'll be gone.

In high school, smoking anywhere on campus was considered a sin. But in college, it's not uncommon for an instructor to walk up to the man in the front row and ask to borrow a cigarette, then light up before he starts lecturing.

But before the freshman knows it, four years of studying, football games and midnight snacks will be over.

It's an exciting world, filled with freedom, new responsibilities and new experiences. It's rough getting started, but the momentum picks up after the first quarter.

The rest is all down hill — a steep hill at that.

Area Schools Get $1.6 Million Aid

Ray Page, state superintendent of public instruction, has announced that Jackson County schools received $1.6 million of the $258 million in state aid granted Illinois schools during the 1965-66 school year.

The $258 million is a $63 million increase over the 1964-65 allotment of $195 million.

Page said the increase is a result of raising the foundation level by $78 per pupil. This level was increased by the last General Assembly from $252 to the $330 effective this year.

Fall Conference Scheduled Here For Terminal, Port Executives

A management conference for waterways terminal and port executives will be held on campus Oct. 31 through Nov. 2.

A. R. MacMillan, director of the SIU Transportation Institute, said this is the first conference of this kind sponsored by SIU.

Authorities in planning, developing, financing and managing terminals and ports on the nation's inland waterways will be discussion leaders.

The conference, planned in cooperation with leaders of the industry, is being offered because of increasing opportunities for developing the nation's inland water commerce and the growing importance of this industry, MacMillan said.

The event will be sponsored jointly by the Transportation Institute, School of Business and Division of Technical and Adult Education. In recent years the institute has been serving the waterways industry with such programs as short courses for towboat masters, chief engineers and marine chemists; and seminars in admiralty law, marine financing and water carriers management.

Highlights of the conference program follow.

Robert E. Hill, newly named president of Chico (Calif.) State College and former dean of the SIU School of Business, will address the opening session on "The Impact of Modern Management."

"Planning for Port Area Development" will be the subject of discussion by William H. Lewis, deputy director of the board of commissioners for the Port of New Orleans, second largest port in America.

Legal matters and legislative provision will be given attention during the first day's afternoon and evening sessions. Robert B. Acomb Jr., an admiralty lawyer with a

A. R. MACMILLAN

New Orleans firm, will discuss "Protection Against Liability." Information about the practical perspectives of port authority laws, which exist in some states and not in others, will be provided by William J. Hull, a Washington, D. C., attorney and legislative adviser.

Lambert S. O'Malley, Washington, D. C., assistant administrator for public works in the Economic Development Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce will address the first dinner session, discussing the agency and its related interest in the development of waterway terminals and ports.

A SIU industrial management specialist, John J. McCarty, will discuss the dynamics of organization and levels of work measurement in two sessions during the conference.

Featured on the program the second morning will be a presentation on "Port Action Program" by three officials of the Maritime Administration, Washington D. C. They include Maitland S. Pennington, chief of the office of maritime promotion; Howard J. Marsden, chief, and Donald D. Allen, assistant chief, Division of Ports and Systems.

Other morning session topics will be a discussion on "Working With Labor" by Prof. Fred Witney of Indiana University and the Labor Conciliation Service; and an address on the value of waterway ports and terminals to American commerce by Maxim M. Cohen, general manager of the Chicago Regional Port District.

The closing morning sessions on Nov. 2 will feature a discussion on financing expansion programs for ports and terminals, by Don S. Mutschler of Salomon Brothers and Hutzler, New York financing consultants. Others speaking during the morning will be John E. Spencer, editor of Handling and Shipping magazine, Cleveland; and Allan Bebee, vice president of the St. Louis Terminal Distributing Co.

Penny-Pinching Advice Given

By Sally Ryan
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A nickel on a can of beans or 20 cents on a pound of bacon—little things may add a lot to soaring food bills.

But harried housewives may save $5 on a $30 bag of groceries by careful shopping. That is the penny-pinching advice from the President's Committee on Consumer Interests.

It is preparing a folder with some ideas for stretching food dollars to be distributed at food stores across the country. Consumers are advised to spend more time considering their purchases and shopping.

High on the list is trying new recipes and new meal ideas. You can cut your food bill 20 per cent by using lower-priced items.

Shop the specials. Check grocery advertisements, particularly for meat, poultry and fish, and plan your menus to include the week's special promotions.

Take special care with meat purchases. They may account for one-third of your food bill. Less expensive types or cuts of meat may be substituted without cutting nutritional values. Try more fish, chicken, turkey, Turkey production is heading toward a record—prices have been down.

That's another tip—shift your menu to reflect the supplies and season.

Fresh fruit and vegetable supplies change constantly, reflecting the weather, harvesting problems—any of a number of things. Substitute remains if Boston lettuce is high.

Switch when the price is right—beef or pork liver for calf liver, bean and cheese dishes for meat.

Buy in quantity, but be careful. Select the amount that will avoid waste.

Library Joins
1 Million Club

SIU's library now ranks among 36 academic libraries that have holdings totaling more than one million volumes.

Sidney Matthews, assistant director of Morris Library, said the June 30 inventory of 997,504 volumes plus summer acquisitions bring the total well over the million mark.

The total includes 774,370 volumes at Morris Library and 223,234 volumes at the Edwardsville library. The growth of the libraries at both campuses is as phenomenal as the growth of the University itself. In 1956, there were only 192,000 volumes at the Carbondale campus.

Morris Library subscribes to 5,835 periodicals, while subscriptions at Edwardsville total 2,951. Student use of library facilities have increased, with circulation at Morris Library up 12 per cent over the preceding year.

Also admitted this year to the ranks with a million volumes or more were the libraries at the University of Oregon and the University of Utah.

Harvard University library has the largest holdings, with over 7 million volumes, followed by Yale at 4 million, and the University of Illinois with about 3 million.

WRA Program
Provides Fun
And Exercise

For women who worry about weight problems, the easiest way to lose that weight may be exercise. But, exercise isn't much fun, unless you become a member of the Women's Recreation Association (WRA).

Membership is simple. All you have to be is a female enrolled at SIU. WRA activities are open to any woman, not just physical education majors.

Besides getting that needed exercise, you might even find yourself enjoying some of the activities that the association sponsors. Some of the activities are even arranged for both sexes.

Besides the exercise and fun, women can earn letters for their participation in the events throughout the year. Letters are awarded on a point system with each event having a point value. The number of points are added up at the end of the year to determine whether a participant will receive a large or a small "T".

The faculty advisor for the WRA is Charlotte West of the Department of Physical Education for women.

Officers are Sue Roberts, president; Pat Gee, vice president; Judy Anderson, secretary-treasurer; Barbara Rogers, clearing house secretary; Virginia Gordon, chairman of sports managers; and Mary Lou Sork, and Barbara Schneider, publicity cochairmen.

One item of interest to women is that the women's gym will be open two nights a week for free recreational activities. The gym will be open on Friday nights from 8-10 p.m. and on Sunday afternoons from 2-5 p.m.

Activities will include badminton, volleyball, shuffle board, table tennis and basketball.

WRA activities will begin Monday when those girls interested in hockey will meet at 4 p.m. at Wall Park.

Girls interested in fencing will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Room 114 of the gym.

Other activities for the fall term include those of the Badminton and Modern Dance Clubs, competitive swimming and the Aquettes.

HOW FAST DO YOU READ?

Time yourself reading this article about
Senator Proxmire praising Reading
Dynamics. It contains 643 words.

Senator William Proxmire, Democrat of Wisconsin has joined the growing ranks of Reading Dynamics graduates. After taking the course along with over 100 other Senators and Congressmen, Senator Proxmire consented to appear on a nationwide television program with the course founder, Mrs. Evelyn Wood. On this program, he praised Reading Dynamics with the following statement:

"I must say that this is one of the most useful education experiences I have ever had. It certainly compares favorably with the experiences I've had at Yale and Harvard."

In this age of ever expanding knowledge, information is being assembled and printed at an overwhelming rate. It is becoming more and more difficult to keep pace with our times, let alone become truly informed about the contributions of the past. To help overcome this seemingly impossible reading task, thousands of persons, like Senator Proxmire, are taking steps to greatly improve their reading abilities through the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics program.

14 YEARS OF RESEARCH

In 1959, after 14 years of dedicated research, the first public classes in Reading Dynamics were taught in Washington, D. C. Included in this first group of students were some of our nation's most prominent people, such as Senate and Congressional leaders, major corporation executives and school officials. The outstanding results that were achieved in these early classes led through public demand to the establishment of Reading Dynamics Institutes throughout the United States and Canada. Since 1959, approximately 250,000 people from all walks of life, have completed this revolutionary reading improvement course. Graduates of Reading Dynamics now include key personnel from many of the nation's leading organizations such as IBM, DuPont, N. A. S. A., and International Telephone and Telegraph. Graduates also include students from many outstanding universities and colleges, such as Harvard, Columbia, UCLA, the University of Texas, Washington University, St. Louis University and University of Missouri. Reading Dynamics is not just a "speed reading" course, but a very comprehensive reading improvement program. Even though the program does indeed achieve extraordinary reading speeds, much emphasis is placed on building comprehension and recall ability as well as developing rapid and high efficient study techniques.

Senator Proxmire

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS
INSTITUTE

Once again in Southern Illinois an Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics course will be offered to the students at SIU.

Classes will meet once a week for 8 weeks ending the week before finals.

In the last 12 months, in the Eastern Missouri and Western Illinois area, approximately 1,000 people have completed the Reading Dynamics course. These 1,000 people had an average beginning reading speed of approx. 270 words per minute and an average comprehension level of 74%. These same people, after completing the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics course, had an average reading speed of 1725 words per minute with a comprehension level of 83%. This represents an increase in reading speed of over 600% and an increase in comprehension of 9%. These results are typical of those obtained in Reading Dynamics Institutes throughout the nation.

RESULTS GUARANTEED

So consistently positive are the results of Reading Dynamics that the program categorically guarantees a minimum increase in reading speed of three times with equal or better comprehension, or the entire tuition fee is refunded.

FREE DEMONSTRATION

The results that have been achieved and the techniques that have made them possible will be demonstrated in the Holiday East Main in Carbondale on TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 27 at 2 p.m., 4 p.m., and 8 p.m. If you cannot attend the free public demonstrations, further information may be obtained by calling the Southern Illinois Reading Dynamics Institute at 457-2469. Considering these facts, can you afford not to investigate what Reading Dynamics can do for you?

How long did it take you? The AVERAGE Reading Dynamics graduate can read this in less than 22 seconds.

California's La Jolla Campus Launches Bold Steps Toward 'Ideal University'

By Neil Morgan
Copley News Service

LA JOLLA, Calif.—"I now believe that what happens within the University of California will affect the future of the state, of the nation, and of mankind to a greater degree than what happens on any other campus in the world."

That sweeping statement comes from a Harvard man: Roger Revelle, a former Californian who is now director of the Center for Population Studies at Harvard.

Here on the cliffs above the Pacific at La Jolla is rising one of the new campuses of the University of California; many of its star-studded faculty were brought here by Revelle before he went to Harvard.

The dream of the "ideal university" which many of these men have shared is being pushed forward by the historian John Galbraith, who has served as chancellor of the University of California, San Diego, since 1964.

"We propose to challenge every assumption of higher education," Galbraith says. "The old forms, not the new, must defend themselves here."

Galbraith insists that it is possible to combine research and teaching effectively. "We want the best research scholars in the country," he says, "and we want them to teach."

So far, so good. Among his research greats is the Nobel laureate Harold Urey, who says, "Teaching is vital to the research scientist because it takes him back to the everlasting fundamentals. I wonder who learns more: the student or the conscientious teacher?"

Urey teaches at UCSD, not only graduate students but undergraduates as well. So do other renowned scientists and scholars gathered at UCSD from all parts of the nation.

By 1964, the first year of undergraduate enrollment at this young campus, seven faculty members had come from the University of Chicago, six from California Institute of Technology, six each from the University of California at Los Angeles and Berkeley, and 22 from the Ivy League.

The faculty is virtually without parallel for a university of its youth in the caliber of its faculty. One in ten is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, and a disproportionate share have been Guggenheim Fellows.

Among the faculty are the critic Roy Harvey Pearce, the economist Seymour Harris, the philosophers Herbert Marcuse and Richard Popkin, the physicists Keith Brueckner, Bernd Matthias and William Nierenberg, the chemists Joseph Mayer, Frederick Wall and Bruno Zimm, the mathematician Stefan Warschawski, the historian Geoffrey Barraclough, the Spanish scholar Americo Castro, and the oceanographers Carl Hubbs, Walter Munk and Warren Wooster.

A second Nobel laureate on the young campus is the physicist Maria Mayer.

The campus had its origins in 1912 as the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, which is now incorporated into the university. In 1958, a general campus was mapped, with a plan for 12 colleges to accommodate a maximum enrollment by 1995 of 27,500 students.

With the intention of combining the intimacy of the small college with the varied resources of the large university, each college is limited to 2,300 students.

The concept was daring; at first, only graduate studies in science and engineering were offered.

Undergraduates began coming in 1964 to the first of the 12 colleges, named for Roger Revelle.

Now the second of the 12 colleges is being readied for the first students to enter in the fall of 1967. It is named for the naturalist and author, John Muir, who is best known for his accounts of early explorations in the Yosemite area of California.

The emphasis at Revelle has been scientific; at Muir, it will be on the humanities.

John Stewart, who helped to develop the Hopkins Center for the Arts at Dartmouth, has come to UCSD to serve as provost of the second college. Among his faculty in the arts will be Rosalyn Tureck, pianist and interpreter of Bach; and Michael Langham, the noted director who will head a proposed $3 million repertory theater adjacent to the campus.

Stewart's approach is lively: "No new theory, no new discovery, no new work of art will long go unexamined or undiscussed. It will not be a comfortable place for those whose minds are made up."

Because student enrollment has outpaced construction schedules, Muir College will occupy temporary quarters for two years in the buildings of the campus area known as Camp Matthews—a wooded area that formerly served as a Marine Corps rifle range.

The excitement of this university's good beginning is serving as a stimulus both to faculty and students.

Although the experimentation inherent in any revolutionary concept has been a distracting factor to some students, it has intrigued many others.

The euphoria of the student at this new campus was perhaps best expressed by a Boston sophomore, Douglas Hopkins, when he said:

"You can get very close to nearly any professor you're interested in."

"You can participate in practically anything. Your only limitation at UCSD is yourself."

In such moods of aspiration on these Pacific cliffs one senses hope that the critical decisions faced by the huge sprawling University of California—those of combining quality with quantity in education—will affect the future for the better.

THAIS ON CAMPUS—Two officials from Thailand visited SIU as part of an American tour. University Audio-Visual Services Praised by Thailand Officials

"Amazing," was one of the words used to describe audio-visual facilities at SIU by two representatives from Thailand who visited campus recently.

The two are making a three-month world tour studying community development facilities in various nations.

They are Vichit Sikhaviriya, deputy director general of the Community Development Department, Ministry of Interior; and Sanitwongse Utesnand, chairman of the Audio-Visual Department.

The information the two will gather will be used to improve Thailand's own community programs.

They left Bangkok Aug. 15 and arrived in Carbondale Sept. 19.

While in the Carbondale area, the men visited the Job Corps Center at Crab Orchard Lake and the Office of Economic Opportunity in Jackson County. En route here they visited New Delhi, London, Washington D.C., and Michigan State University.

One of their stops while on campus was the Audio-Visual Services in Morris Library.

"I was surprised that Southern had such an extensive department," Utesnand said. "We were amazed."

This area was of particular interest to Utesnand inasmuch he has done graduate work in this field at the Indiana University.

Before leaving Carbondale today, the men will have met with Carbondale's mayor and city manager, and also have discussed public health with the local health officials.

Before leaving the U.S., the two will travel back to Washington, D. C., and from there will go to Hawaii, Taiwan, the Philippines and Puerto Rico en route home.

Their trip, sponsored by the Thai and American governments, will make it possible for the men to help speed up six target goals set for their community development program.

The six are the improvement of income, public properties, health and sanitation, education, the development and restoration of culture and recreation, and the encouragement of a self-help government.

Sikhaviriya said that the United States is playing a major role in the community programs by providing personnel for the project and contributing five per cent of the funds.

The Peace Corps is playing a related role in Thailand's development effort. Of the 200 corpsmen in the country, 62 are working in community development with the Ministry of Interior.

Sikhaviriya believes that the contribution the corpsmen are making has been of much benefit.

AT EDWARDSVILLE—With the start of classes, students at the SIU Edwardsville campus have moved into the new $4.2 million Science Building. The facility is being used by students majoring in science and fine arts who previously had their classes in old buildings at East St. Louis or the Alton campus. Like the new Physical Science Building at Carbondale, the Edwardsville structure is windowless. Large lecture halls and laboratory space can accommodate 672 students at the same hour.

Physical Plant Crews Renovate, Remodel, Shift Existing Facilities

While other workers hammer together new buildings on campus, University Physical Plant Construction crews are hammering on old ones. Remodeling and renovating projects now underway are designed to open more classroom and office space by October.

Crews have restored the 183-seat Home Economics Building auditorium. The auditorium was used as a television storage and production area before WSIU-TV moved to the new Communications Building in June.

Partitioning the unfinished second floor of the Communications Building has been delayed by lack of materials. The partitioned area, originally scheduled for completion Oct. 1, will house the associate architect's office and the Department of Speech.

Shower rooms in the stadium are being converted to half-time rest areas for football teams. Team members use shower and dressing facilities at the Arena.

Though the three-structure Technology Building Group will not be completed until winter quarter, nine nearly-finished rooms in one building of the group will be pressed into service for general classroom use.

Final drawings are complete for converting portions of the first and second floors of Old Main to new space for the SIU Museum, according to the associate architect's office. However, the project is still in the planning stage.

The Physical Sciences Building and an office-classroom wing adjoining Lawson Hall are scheduled for completion next year.

Several office moves are now complete.

The Security Office has been moved to the former Health Service Site at Washington and Park Streets.

The University Auditor's Office is now located at 108 E. Park St.

University Press is now located on the second floor of the University Center.

Parking Section has been moved to 212 E. Pearl St.

Returning Peace Corpsmen To Arrive at SIU Monday

Three Peace Corps volunteers who have served "hitches" abroad will be on campus Monday to talk to SIU students.

Two recruiters will be at SIU Oct. 1 to join them.

The five will visit classes to speak about the Peace Corps, and will hold meetings with fraternities, sororities and other groups.

An information booth will be set up in the University Center where the returning volunteers will answer questions and administer the language aptitude examination for students interested in joining the Peace Corps.

Members of the advance team are William T. Hines, 24, who served with the Peace Corps in Bolivia, Warren J. Enger, 26, who served in French West Africa, and Margie Melun, 24, who served in Togo.

Recruiters are Paul D. Larson, 26, who served in Thailand, and Patricia L. Shiner, 24, who was in Ethiopia.

New Gear In London Bring 'Ahs'

By Eddy Gilmore

LONDON (AP) — Carnaby Street—that narrow lane of swinging, youthful gear—held its first big-time fashion show, and it was new, brash and even elegant.

Staged by Cockney-born Irvine Sellars, 28, who owns three shops on Carnaby Street, it churned up admiring "ahs," applause and cheers from an invited audience of 250.

"With this show," said Sellars, who has advanced from an East End pushcart to a chauffeur-driven Rolls-Royce, "I hope to impress the pundits of high fashion that Carnaby Street can be professional."

What he showed could turn into a real challenge to the makers of conventional clothes. His clothes—or gear as he prefers to call the raiment—could have repercussions in the carpeted halls of haute couture as well as on Savile Row.

To the throbbing rhythm of a pop music group, Sellars presented a chorus of very young female and male models wearing his dresses and suits.

They did not slink up and down the catwalk as do the models of the big fashion of Paris, London and Rome. They danced as they showed off their gear.

Goal Is $52,000

SIU United Fund To Begin Oct. 13

The Carbondale United Fund campaign for 1967 at SIU will begin Oct. 13 with a kickoff dinner in the University Center Ballrooms.

Rex D. Karnes, campus fund chairman, said University faculty and staff may contribute to this year's $52,000 goal through payroll deductions, or by private contributions.

Of the total, $46,000 goes to local agencies. Faculty members who live outside of Carbondale will have their contribution transferred to the United Fund agencies where they live.

James A. Cherry, campaign chairman, will open the Carbondale campaign with a special breakfast at 7:30 a.m. Monday at Holiday Inn.

Cherry said, "People are really generous and helpful where our youth are concerned through such organizations as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Hogan Center, Teen Town, the YMCA and Junior Baseball."

C. Horton Talley, publicity chairman for the campaign, said the collection of United Fund contributions by SIU fraternities and service groups is greatly appreciated. Talley also said that although the drive on campus is primarily aimed toward the faculty, student contributions would also be welcomed.

Other divisions in the campaign and their chairmen include advanced gifts, Dr. John B. Taylor; small firms, Harold Howe; business employes, Amos T. Graddy; public employes, Robert Merz; and residential, Mrs. R. Dean Isbell.

Teal Hunting Season Comes to End Sunday

The eight-day Illinois teal season will close at 6 p.m. Sunday. The daily limit for the blue and green-winged teal is four and the possession limit is eight.

INDUCTION CEREMONY—Capt. Joe E. Johnson, assistant professor of aerospace studies, is administering the oath of enlistment in the campus Air Force reserve unit to David K. Fisher, a junior from Savoy, Ill. Many SIU men will be inducted into the Air Force ROTC program this week. Uniforms are being distributed at the Wheeler Hall annex.

Staff Additions Made

Sociologists Have Back Door Business During Widening Work on Mill Street

All business of the Department of Sociology is being transacted through the back door these days.

Access to the front doors of the four offices, located in houses on West Mill St., has been blocked by the widening of the street.

The front yards of the four houses, including the front steps, have been pushed away by bulldozers. The level of the pavement when poured will be four to eight feet below the front doors.

The department is scheduled to move into permanent quarters in Lawson Hall at the end of the fall term.

Staff changes in the Department of Sociology include the retirement of Louis Petroff, associate professor. Martha E. Brose, instructor, resigned at the end of summer term.

Peter A. Munch, professor, has been granted a leave without pay for the academic year 1966-67. Aided by a grant from the American Philosophical Association and a visiting professorship from the Syracuse University, he will continue work on materials collected during a recent revisit to the island of Tristan da Cunha.

Additions to the staff include:

Monte R. Blair, instructor. Blair has a M.A. degree from the University of Minnesota and is a candidate for the Ph. D. degree from Duke University. Blair, whose specializations are demography and research methods, will contribute to the development of a program of research in the area of population problems.

Elizabeth W. Nall, instructor. Mrs. Nall holds a M.A. degree from Michigan State University and is a Ph.D. candidate there. She has been serving as an instructor in the Department of Mathematics and will teach in the General Studies program.

Robert D. Rossell, assistant professor. Rossell, who taught at SIU during the summer term, holds a doctor's degree from Yale University. His areas of specializations are industrial sociology, small group studies and social psychology.

Margaret R. Smith, instructor. Mrs. Smith holds a bachelor's degree with honors from the University of Nottingham and a certificate in applied social studies from the London School of Economics. Mrs. Smith is the wife of David M. Smith of the University of Manchester, England, a visiting professor of geography.

Salukis Seek Wins

The 1966 Saluki football team is out to break a four-season long losing complex.

The last SIU team to have a winning season was the 1961 squad with a 7-3 record.

Since then, the records have been 4-6, 4-5 and 2-8.

Counts Talks To Future

Professor To Record Life for Biographers

George S. Counts, educator at SIU, is getting ready to talk himself into the future.

Motives, meanings, satisfactions and possible regrets in the life of the distinguished professor will be recorded for use by biographers after his death.

The National Society for the Study of Education will collect confidential autobiographical sketches from a number of persons who have had great influence on education.

Counts was contacted by Robert J. Havighurst of the University of Chicago, who was authorized by the board of the National Society for the Study of Education to explore the project with a group of educators. Havighurst said sketches would be confidential.

Material would be made available to biographers after death, as it was felt the selected educators might talk more freely if the information were not publicized during their lifetimes.

Havighurst suggested that the Counts' sketch include discussions about his education, background, friends and associates, personal motives and drives, career, family and personal social life, major events or movements in education in which Counts was engaged, Counts' judgment about himself, and his life the past 10 years.

Counts, author of 29 books on education, is recognized as a top authority on education in Russia. His honors include Columbia University's Distinguished Service Medal in 1954, and membership in the select National Academy of Education in 1965.

His book, "The Challenge of Soviet Education," won the American Library Association's Liberty and Justice Award as "the most distinguished book of 1957 in contemporary problems and affairs."

Counts, who came to Southern in 1962 from Michigan State University, holds a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago and an LL.D. from Baker University in Kansas.

He served as a professor at the University of Wisconsin, Yale University, University of Chicago, Teachers College at Columbia University and other institutions before coming here from Michigan State. He was a member of the Philippine Educational Survey Commission in 1925, was a member of the Educational Mission to Japan in 1946, and served as a lecturer on education in Brazil in 1957. He made three extensive tours of the Soviet Union.

In 1929 he drove his own car through European Russia. A large part of the trip was made alone.

Music Student Invents Device To Show Tone Relationships

An ingenious device somewhat like the mathematician's slide rule has been invented by an SIU music student from Hong Kong to aid students in the study of music theory and composition.

Chau-yuan M. Li, who came to Southern in the spring of 1965 with degrees from the British Royal Schools of Music and the Tonic Sol-Fa College, London, plans to teach music when he returns to Hong Kong.

Li came to the conclusion that many students, particularly beginners, have difficulty in visualizing the relation between tones, semitones and the letter names of these tones.

Since he is employed part-time in the Graphic Arts Center of the Audio-Visual Services, he began to experiment with various "gimmicks" which could be manipulated to show this relationship.

He finally developed a five-by-seven-inch plastic card on which the letter names of tones are printed in a circle. In the center is a rotating disc on which many musical constants are printed. At the upper edge

Lack of Address Speeds SIU Mail

The University Post Office has notified all University department offices to inform their correspondents to omit the street number and name when addressing mail to the department.

This will avoid confusion and delay in the delivery of the mail, according to the post office. If the street name and number appears in the address, the correspondence must go through the Carbondale Post Office and be delivered by a city carrier.

Off-Campus Requests Seeking SIU Library Materials Rise

Libraries, government and research agencies, and industry borrow scarce books and other materials from SIU's million-volume library, according to Harold J. Rath, special services librarian.

In the past three years requests for interlibrary loans have climbed from 311 to 2,241, he said.

Southern's library was able to fill 1,700 of the 2,241 requests made last year, Rath said. Some came from such distant places as South Australia, England and Yugoslavia.

Government, industry and research agencies accounted for a substantial number of the requests. These included calls from Bausch & Lomb, Inc., Cargill Inc. Research Library, Communicable Disease Center, General Motors Technical Center, National Institute of Health.

On the other hand, SIU borrowed 1,546 items of materials for the use of its students and faculty from 239 other libraries.

SIU's library holdings at the close of the fiscal year totaled 997,504 volumes.

Evaluation of Teacher's Ability Is Like Race

SIU Experiments With 'Mini-School' in Student Teaching

Present evaluation of student teacher potential can be compared to a foot race, according to an SIU educator.

"There's a parallel between a track event and teaching," said Charles D. Neal, chairman of the Department of Student Teaching. "For example, if we were to set a qualifying time of 15 seconds for a 100-yard dash, we might have a few failures but would have a lot who could run faster than the established mark."

"It's the same in teaching, where educators tend to set a minimum standard of proficiency for student teachers," continued Neal, who is working to improve the appraisal system.

"Consequently, at the end of a term of student teaching, we always are able to pick out the few with poor potential but seldom can we tell the full possibilities that could be developed with opportunity," Neal said.

SIU ranks third in the nation and first in Illinois as a producer of new teachers, according to a June, 1966, report released by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education.

Just completed by Neal's department this summer has been a "mini-school," with an objective of determining full potential of student teachers, something that hasn't been done in the past. "Mini" is derived from the word miniature.

Neal gives a definite "yes" to questions about the success of the school. He said a learning situation was developed where children "progressed from the unknown to the known with ease."

From among more than 300 pupils in Grades 1-6 who took part in an eight-week summer education program at Murphysboro, 22 volunteer children were transported to rooms in SIU's Wham Education Building each morning for six weeks to take part in the campus student teaching project.

Teachers in the mini-school were 11 students in education with no previous classroom experience except having taught in the Murphysboro program. They planned their

Extension Division Adds Staff Member

Andrew H. Marcec, 35, of Collinsville, has joined the staff of the Extension Division as conference coordinator.

Marcec, who received his bachelor's degree from Southern's College of Agriculture in June, 1956, was director of personnel at the Breckenridge Job Corps Center near Morganfield, Ky., before coming to SIU. He was assistant personnel director for the Illinois Agriculture Association at Bloomington from 1957 to 1965.

He is vice president of the SIU Alumni Association board of directors.

curriculum under the direction of Cleo Carter, a supervisor of student teaching in Neal's department.

It embraced four areas: (a) communications, that gave children help in reading, writing, listening, speaking and spelling; (b) mathematical learning; (c) art and music; and (d) physical fitness. They had full responsibility for the classroom sessions.

CHARLES D. NEAL

"Student teachers assumed responsibility in this situation more quickly than in the normal practice of having regular classroom teachers oversee their work," Mrs. Carter said.

Neal said because student teachers had full responsibility in class, their complete potential was tapped during the summer teaching period.

"Educators in charge of the traditional student teaching programs are not quite sure at the end of a term just how much potential and resourcefulness has been displayed by the student teacher," he said. "The extent of their ability is never fully tested. But not so in the mini-school."

SIU Physiologists Attend Meetings

Three members of the Department of Physiology attended meetings of the American Physiological Society recently in Houston, Tex.

The three are George H. Gass, director of the Endocrinologic Pharmacology Research Laboratory, and Michael F. Nudd and William M. W. Yau, research assistants in the laboratory.

They presented a paper, "Glucose Absorption During Chronic Restraint," a summary of research being done on campus for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The meetings, held Aug. 29-Sept. 2 in the Manned Space Center in Houston, included a symposium on man's physiological reactions during space flight.

where they were in complete charge."

Mrs. Carter said the children really enjoyed the experience. "Do we really have to go home?" and "My mama says the school's going to end but we're having so much fun I hope it doesn't" were typical comments, she said.

Neal said the program in 1967-68 will be carried to a more conclusive point. Eleven selected student teachers trained in the traditional way in a supervised classroom will be matched with 11 minischool teachers in regular classrooms of schools within 90 miles of the campus. The work of the two groups will be evaluated by school superintendents, principals, curriculum supervisors and members of Neal's department.

Fulbright Applications Now Being Accepted

Applications for grants to study abroad or for faculty research under the Fulbright-Hays Act are now being accepted.

The grants will be made to qualified instructors or staff members in the modern language or international studies fields. The money is to be used to carry out projects submitted and designed by colleges, departments of education or school districts.

It is expected that 35 grants will be available for the 1967-68 school year.

Criteria state that, normally, it should be possible for a single staff member to bring the project to a successful completion.

The project may concern any aspect of modern foreign language or area studies which would benefit from the overseas activity.

Suggested projects include the collecting of material for texts, collecting visual or auditory materials or the study of teaching procedures.

The grants usually include the round-trip transportation fares plus 150 pounds of goods by air cargo; health and accident insurance; $500 a month stipend; $100 a month allowance for each dependent up to four, whether or not they accompany the person receiving the grant; up to $300 reimbursement for tuition and fees and $250 for educational materials.

Obelisks for 1966 Are Still on Sale

The Obelisk office has announced that 1966 Obelisks may still be obtained.

The Obelisk office, Building H-2, is situated at the northwest corner of the Agriculture Building.

Any student who paid activity fees for three terms last year may purchase an Obelisk for $2. A $6 fee will be charged to anyone else.
